

THE UNITED STATES ARMY WAR COLLEGE
CLASS OF 2003
PRESENTS "RELENTLESS PURSUIT-FREEDOM ENDURES"

The United States Army War College Class of 2003 print titled "Relentless Pursuit-Freedom Endures" by Bradley Schmehl is being offered for $125 (Plus $20 for packaging and shipping of each print). A limited edition of 400 prints (with AWC seal, artist's signature, number, and certificate of authenticity) is being sold between 01 March and 15 April 2003.

In 2001, the United States assembled a coalition of nations against terrorists in Afghanistan with the military objective of driving the Taliban from power, capturing, killing, or disrupting Al Qaeda, and providing humanitarian relief to the Afghan people.

Mr Schmehl's print captures a conceptual representation of the U.S. Army and Air Force Special Operations Forces in a horseback charge against the Taliban in Afghanistan during Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF), November 2001. In a background scene, his print also highlights the partnership of coalition forces during the operation. These efforts symbolizing the flexible necessities of combat and the reliance on partnerships needed to support political and strategic objectives in order to achieve international success in the 21st Century.

Note: The attached picture is a color study (Scaled down version) and not a final product. The final product will represent the same content but figures will vary in position and scale.
